

CCS EDUCATION COMMISSION

The CCS Education Commission is comprised of the following: Dean of the Marshfield Deanery, the President and administrative officials of CCS, along with nine parents representing the local parishes. In 2008, a non-Catholic representative position was created to provide insight into those needs of our school system. The Commission's primary role is to act as an advisory body to the President and Dean.

During each meeting, the Commission reviews administrative reports and discusses various topics presented by the CCS staff and committee chairs. Parents wishing to submit or speak on an idea are asked to contact any Commission member to be put on the agenda.

For more information about getting involved with the Commission or other volunteer activities at Columbus Catholic Schools, contact any of the Commission members.
